Jungian Psychology. $10,000. Graduate level

German Marshall Fund

Deadline: Varies, see website, nomination required.

<http://www.gmfus.org/cs/mmf>

Individuals interested in participating in the Marshall Memorial Fellowship must be nominated by a recognized leader in their community or professional field. All Marshall Memorial Fellowship alumni are also eligible to nominate for the program. Nominators should be in a senior position and be able to evaluate the candidate's leadership potential.

Founded in 1982, the Marshall Memorial Fellowship (MMF) was created by the German Marshall Fund of the United States to introduce a new generation of European leaders to the United States. In 1999, GMF launched a companion program to expose future U.S. leaders to a changing and expanding Europe.

The Marshall Memorial Fellowship provides a unique opportunity for emerging leaders from the United States and Europe to explore institutions, politics, and culture on the other side of the Atlantic. American and European Fellows each visit five cities during the 24-day program. They meet formally and informally with a range of policymakers, prominent community members, and local MMF alumni. During the trip, each Fellow also has the opportunity to explore his or her individual professional interests beyond the group programs, which focus on a range of domestic and international policy areas.

Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline

Deadlines: June 15 | December 15

The American Sociological Association invites submissions by PhD sociologists for the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) awards. Supported by the American Sociological Association through a matching grant from the National Science Foundation, the goal of this project is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding small, groundbreaking research initiatives and other important scientific research activities such as conferences. FAD awards provide scholars with small grants ($7,000 maximum) for innovative research that has the potential for challenging the discipline, stimulating new lines of research, and creating new networks of scientific collaboration. The award is intended to provide opportunities for substantive and methodological breakthroughs, broaden the dissemination of scientific knowledge, and provide leverage for acquisition of additional research funds.

Ford foundation

November

Through its program of Fellowships, the Ford Foundation seeks to increase the diversity of the nation's college and university faculties by increasing their ethnic and racial diversity, to maximize the educational benefits of diversity, and to increase the number of professors who can and will use diversity as a resource for enriching the education of all students.

Criteria for Selection

The following will be considered as positive factors in choosing successful candidates:

Evidence of superior academic achievement

Degree of promise of continuing achievement as scholars and teachers

Capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the learning needs of students from diverse backgrounds

Sustained personal engagement with communities that are underrepresented in the academy and an ability to bring this asset to learning, teaching, and scholarship at the college and university level

Likelihood of using the diversity of human experience as an educational resource in teaching and scholarship

Membership in one or more of the following groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding:

Alaska Natives (Aleut, Eskimo or other Indigenous People of Alaska)

Black/African Americans

Mexican Americans/Chicanas/Chicanos

Native American Indians

Native Pacific Islanders (Hawaiian, Polynesian, or Micronesian)

Puerto Ricans

Applications will be evaluated by panels of distinguished scholars selected by the National Academies. The panels will use academic records, essays, letters of recommendation, the application itself, and other appropriate materials as the basis for determining the extent to which candidates meet the eligibility requirements and the selection criteria.

Review panels may also look at additional factors such as the likelihood that the applicant will fully utilize 9 to 12 months of support prior to receiving the Ph.D. or Sc.D.

Mellon / ACLS

<http://www.acls.org/programs/DCF/>

Fellowship Details

- Stipend: $25,000, plus funds for research costs of up to $3,000 and for university fees of up to $5,000
- Tenure: one year beginning summer 2011

ACLS invites applications for the fifth annual competition for the Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowships. This is the first stage of the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation/ACLS Early Career Fellowship Program, a significant new fellowship program providing support for young scholars. The first part of this program—the Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowships—makes possible a year of supported research and writing, to help students complete their dissertation. The second part of the program provides support for a year, following the completion of the doctorate, for new scholars to advance their research. A grant from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation supports this program.

The Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowships are to assist graduate students in the humanities and related social sciences (1) in the last year of Ph.D. dissertation writing. This program aims to encourage timely completion of the Ph.D. Applicants must be prepared to complete their dissertations within the period of their fellowship tenure and no later than August 31, 2012.

ACLS will award 65 Fellowships in this competition for a one-year term beginning between June and September 2011 for the 2011-2012 academic year. The Fellowship tenure may be carried out in residence at the Fellow's home institution, abroad, or at another appropriate site for the research. The total award of up to $33,000 includes a stipend plus additional funds for university fees and research support. These Fellowships may not be held concurrently with any other fellowship or grant.

The Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education. These fellowships support individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world. Applicants must be candidates for the doctoral degree in any field of study at a graduate school. They need not be US citizens.

Dissertation topics must concern education, and all pre-dissertation requirements must be completed by June 1 of the academic year prior to support.

Applications are available online.

Wenner-Gren

November 1 and May 1

<http://www.wennergren.org/programs/dissertation-fieldwork-grants>

Dissertation Fieldwork Grants are awarded to aid doctoral or thesis research. The program contributes to the Foundation's overall mission to support basic research in anthropology and to ensure that the discipline continues to be a source of vibrant and significant work that furthers our understanding of humanity's cultural and biological origins, development, and variation. The Foundation supports research that demonstrates a clear link to anthropological theory and debates, and promises to make a solid contribution to advancing these ideas. There is no preference for any methodology, research location, or subfield. The Foundation particularly welcomes proposals that employ a comparative perspective, can generate innovative approaches or ideas, and/or integrate two or more subfields.

Students must be enrolled in a doctoral program (or equivalent, if applying from outside the United States) at the time of application. Students of all nationalities are eligible to apply. There is no time limit on the duration of the grant, and funding may be requested to cover distinct research phases (for example, two summers) if this is part of the research design.

Am-Scan

The ASF's award program for study and research abroad has been the Foundation's most long-standing commitment to educational exchange. During the past 100 years, over 4,000 fellowships and grants have been given to Americans and Scandinavians engaged in study or research projects. In 2010, 80 students, professionals and artists were provided over $850,000 in total funding.

DAAD (German Academic Exchange) Graduate Research Scholarship

Deadline: November 8 (submission deadline; prelim deadline is earlier)

Yale Student Grants Database

Graduate research scholarships are awarded to doctoral candidates in all fields of study for research at universities or research institutes in Germany. They are granted from one to 10 months, with the possibility of a one-year extension. 10-month scholarships must take place during the German academic year (October 1, 2011 to July 31, 2012). Short-term grants (one to six months) must be started between six and twelve months after the application deadline. Monthly stipends are approximately €1,000. DAAD will pay for health insurance and provide a flat rate subsidy for travel costs.

The Charlotte W. Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowship

Deadline: November 15 (estimated from 2010 deadline)

http://woodrow.org/higher-education-fellowships/religion_ethics/index.php

The Charlotte W. Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowships are designed to encourage original and significant study of ethical or religious values in all fields of the humanities and social sciences, and particularly to help Ph.D. candidates in these fields complete their dissertation work in a timely manner. In addition to topics in religious studies or in ethics (philosophical or religious), dissertations appropriate to the Newcombe Fellowship competition might explore the ethical implications of foreign policy, the values influencing political decisions, the moral codes of other cultures, and religious or ethical issues reflected in history or literature. In the 2011 Newcombe competition, up to 20 non-renewable Fellowships of $25,000 will be awarded for 12 months of full-time dissertation writing; in addition, Fellows' graduate schools will be asked to waive tuition and/or remit some portion of their fees.

Newcombe Fellowships are awarded annually following a rigorous national selection process. Eligibility for Newcombe Doctoral Dissertation Fellowships is limited to students enrolled in doctoral programs in the humanities and social sciences at graduate schools in the United States. Awards are for 12 months of dissertation writing. All pre-dissertation requirements should be met by the application deadline, including approval of the dissertation proposal, and applicants must expect to submit completed dissertations by summer 2012. No Newcombe Foundation support is available for post-doctoral fellowships. To be eligible for selection, the graduate scholar must be preparing a dissertation in which ethical or religious values are a central concern. According to the Woodrow Wilson National Scholarship Foundation, "...dissertations appropriate to the Newcombe Fellowship competition might explore the ethical implications of foreign policy, the values influencing political decision, the moral codes of other cultures, and religious or ethical issues reflected in history or literature."

The Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy
ASA Congressional Fellowship

Deadline: February 1

The ASA encourages applications for its Congressional Fellowship. The Fellowship brings a PhD-level sociologist to Washington, DC, to work as a staff member on a congressional committee, in a congressional member office, or in a congressional agency (e.g., the Government Accountability Office). This intensive six-month experience reveals the intricacies of the policy making process to the sociological fellow, and shows the usefulness of sociological data and concepts to policy issues.

Community Action Research Initiative (CARI Grants) The Sydney S. Spivack Program in Applied Social Research and Social Policy

Deadline: February 1

To encourage sociologists to undertake community action projects that bring social science knowledge, methods, and expertise to bear in addressing community-identified issues and concerns, ASA administers competitive CARI awards. Grant applications are encouraged from sociologists seeking to work with community organizations, local public interest groups, or community action projects. Appointments will run for the duration of the project, whether the activity is to be undertaken during the year, in the summer, or for other time-spans.

Carla B. Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants

Deadline: February 1

Applications are being accepted for the Carla B. Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants. This small grants program supports teaching projects that advance the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) within the discipline of sociology. The Carnegie Foundation has defined SoTL as "problem posing about an issue of teaching or learning, study of the problem through methods appropriate to the disciplinary epistemologies, applications of results to practice, communication of results, self-reflection, and peer review" (Cambridge, 2001).

Howery Teaching Enhancement Grants can support an individual, a program, a department, or a committee of a state or regional association. ASA will award up to two grants, each up to $2,000. Principal criteria for the award are: The project advances the teaching and learning of sociology, serves as a seed project that will continue to have an impact over time, and will be systemic in its impact. The criteria are intentionally flexible in order to accommodate innovative proposals.

Summer Program Tuition Fellowship

Deadline: February 1

Yale Student Grants Database

The Graduate School will provide up to four competitively awarded tuition fellowships of up to $3,000 each to doctoral candidates in all fields of study in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences who have been admitted to a summer program sponsored by an institution of higher education in the United States or abroad.

Leylan Fellowships in the Social Sciences

Deadline: February 1

Yale Student Grants Database

A bequest from the estate of Robert M. Leylan ('29) will provide funds for up to four prize fellowships to advanced students of exceptional merit in the Graduate School of Arts & Sciences in any field of the social sciences.

Each Leylan Fellow received a twelve-month stipend of $27,000 during the 2010-2011 academic year. Leylan Fellows receive an additional grant-in-aid of $2,000 upon completing their degree within 18 months of the start of the fellowship. The Leylan Fellowship also covers tuition or continuous registration fees for recipients.

Wenner-Gren

November 1 and May 1

<http://www.wennergren.org/programs/dissertation-fieldwork-grants>

Dissertation Fieldwork Grants are awarded to aid doctoral or thesis research. The program contributes to the Foundation's overall mission to support basic research in anthropology and to ensure that the discipline continues to be a source of vibrant and significant work that furthers our understanding of humanity's cultural and biological origins, development, and variation. The Foundation supports research that demonstrates a clear link to anthropological theory and debates, and promises to make a solid contribution to advancing these ideas. There is no preference for any methodology, research location, or subfield. The Foundation particularly welcomes proposals that employ a comparative perspective, can generate innovative approaches or ideas, and/or integrate two or more subfields.

Students must be enrolled in a doctoral program (or equivalent, if applying from outside the United States) at the time of application. Students of all nationalities are eligible to apply. There is no time limit on the duration of the grant, and funding may be requested to cover distinct research phases (for example, two summers) if this is part of the research design.
